Living in another country is the best way to become fluent in a foreign language. By living abroad, you will be able to use the language every day in a variety of situations. Doing new things, outside the classroom, will allow you to experience many situations that classroom English cannot cover. You will also be able to talk directly to people in that country, who use the language all the time, so you will experience a living language, not a textbook version. This is the most exciting and motivating way to improve your ability. (94 words)

反対意見の解答例

Living abroad is not necessarily the best way to become fluent in another language. There are many drawbacks, but perhaps the major one is the cost. It is extremely expensive to live abroad as a student, which means that studying in your home country is much more realistic and can be continued for longer for the same amount of money. These days, technology such as Zoom allows us to talk with people living abroad and experience many of the benefits of talking with native language speakers without actually having to go to the country.
