Companies should allow their workers to wear more casual clothes because they can feel more comfortable while working. When employees are comfortable, they may be able to focus better on their tasks, leading to increased productivity and efficiency. Allowing casual clothing can reduce the need for expensive uniforms or suits. It can also let workers be cooler or warmer, which can reduce energy costs for the company. Dressing casually can also encourage workers to express their personal style and individuality, which can boost creativity. This can be an attractive thing for people looking for a new job. 反対意見の解答例

Companies should not allow their workers to wear more casual clothes because some people may be confused about what is acceptable to wear. This could cause problems between workers and may have a negative impact. Also, formal clothes, like a suit, may be seen as an important part of a company's professional image. Many people could not imagine working as a lawyer or a business manager while wearing casual clothes. Some workers may also feel that they need a suit to switch to from home mode to work mode. If they are wearing casual clothes, they may have trouble working. (100 words)
